4. Working of the Museum—Due attention was paid to the general upkeep and maintenance of various galleries in both the Lal Baradari and Kaisarbagh buildings. In the Numismatic Section large wooden cabinets complete with perforated trays, were fitted inside the Chubb and Godrej safes for arranging the gold coins of the Gupta, Pathan and Mughal Emperors. Besides twelve small wooden cabinets were purchased for displaying separately copper coins of various autonomous states (gana rajya) which existed in Aryavartta from the earliest times to 4th century A.D. Three Godrej Steel Almirahs were also purchased for keeping other miscellaneous coins in the Coin Room.

In the Natural History Section some of the specimens such as lion, giraffe, antelope, python attacking the deer etc. which were thoroughly cleaned and polished. Besides a large number of birds were re-arranged in scientific order.

In the Ethnographic Section 25 objects including some fine examples of Nepalese bronzes so far kept in reserve collection, were put on show and provided with suitable labels.

In the Archaeological Section fifty terracottas and a dozen stone heads were selected from the reserve collection and brought to the exhibition galleries after mounting them on wooden pedestals and providing them with bi-lingual labels. Considerable improvement was also effected in the arrangement and display of seals and sealings and a big showcase was provided entirely for their exhibition.

As usual several parties of students from local and outside educational institutions visited the museum for study. They were taken round in the Archaeological Section by the Custodian and in the Lal Baradari by the Museum and Gallery Assistants. Distinguished visitors and scholars of repute were, however, shown round by the Curator himself.

To propagate the study of archaeology sets of electroplated casts of coins, estampages of inscriptions and photographs of important antiquities were lent to the historical exhibitions held by the District Board at Rae Bareilly and by St. Andrew's College at Gorakhpur. Besides, a few selected original art objects consisting of coins, sculptures, terracottas and paintings were lent to the Lucknow University for the Art Exhibition organized on the occasion of its Silver Jubilee Celebrations.

Facsimiles of important inscriptions and electroplated casts of coins were supplied to the Patna and Allahabad Universities; Tilakdhari College, Jaunpur; D. B. M. School, Baghawanpur, Tahsil Mogha, district Ferozepur; and to the District Inspector of Schools, Etawah, for the Educational Museum there. To create and arouse public interest in the museum antiquities, photographs of important exhibits were supplied to S. A. V. Intermediate College, Bharthana (Etawah); Sri P. Bandopadhyaya, Delhi, and Sri M. R. Majumdar, Baroda. Besides, a large-sized photoprint of Akbar's portrait, prepared by Sri Sharda Prasad, a living artist of great repute, was supplied to the Ministry of Education, Government of India, for inclusion in the documentary exhibition proposed to be held at the UNESCO conference. Under orders of the State Government the Provincial Museum agreed to give away on permanent loan to the National Museum of India, New Delhi, the seven sculptures which were originally sent in 1947 to the Indian Art Exhibition held at Burlington House, London, and later on retained at the Government House Exhibition, New Delhi.

During the year the Curator inspected the ancient site of Khukhundu in Deoria district and recommended Government to sanction Rs.2,000 for the protection and preservation of that important site. Government were pleased to accept his recommendations and placed the amount at the disposal of the District Magistrate, Deoria, who was asked to take up the work in consultation with the Curator, Sri M. M. Nagar. A detailed report on the work done at Khukhundu was also prepared by the Curator and submitted to Government.

At the instance of the State Government the Curator inspected the District Museum at Budaun and the Barkhandi Museum at Shivagarh (district Rae Bareilly) and submitted to Government detailed reports on them along with his recommendations for their development.

Sri Nagar was further asked by Government to visit the ancient site of Ahichchhatra in Bareilly district and study the monuments, specially a mud wall profusely studded with bones, which were excavated there by the Archaeological Survey of India.

The Curator represented the Uttar Pradesh Government and the Provincial Museum, Lucknow, on the Arts Conference convened by the Ministry of Education, Government of India, at Calcutta, for creating a National Cultural Trust to foster and develop the art and culture of the country. The Curator also attended as an official delegate, the twelfth session of the Indian History Conference, the Annual Meeting of the Numismatic Society of India and of Museums Association of India, held at Cuttack and participated in their proceedings and deliberations. He visited the ancient sites and monuments of Puri and Bhuvaneshwara and made their critical study.

Under G. O. no. F. 5-4/49-A.I., dated June 30, 1949, the Government of India, Ministry of Education, New Delhi, were pleased to appoint Sri Nagar as one of their Regional Advisers for examining and recommending the purchase of art objects available in Uttar Pradesh for acquisition by the National Museum of India. The Curator was also appointed during the year a member of the District Educational Museum, Etawah.

The Short Guide-Book to Natural History Section of the Museum, prepared by the Curator two years ago, has now been published and its copies are available for sale at the museum counter. The publication was a long-felt need of the public and has proved of great benefit to visitors desirous of knowing about zoological specimens in a short time without going much into their details or technicalities. Towards the close of the year the Curator, under orders of the Hon'ble Minister for Education, prepared a booklet on 'the progress and working of the museums in Uttar Pradesh' for circulation amongst the members of the legislature with a view to apprise them of the working of our museums.

Besides examining a large number of coins offered for sale by the public, the Curator, as Honorary Secretary of the U. P. Coin Committee deciphered 654 coins found as treasure trove in the Province and forwarded his recommendations to Government for their acquisition and distribution to various institutions. A detailed report on the working of the U. P. Coin Committee is incorporated in paragraph 7 of the report.

During the year acquisitions to different sections were as under:

Archaeology .. .. .	163
Numismatics .. .. .	600
Natural History .. .. .	1
Ethnography .. .. .	57
Picture Gallery .. .. .	9
Total .. .. .	830

5. Archaeology.—The antiquities under this section were augmented by the addition of 163 antiquities. The most valuable of these, however, is an extremely beautiful sculpture of the Jaina patriarch Ajitanatha (Plate I) which has been acclaimed by eminent scholars to be of great artistic merit and of considerable significance for the elucidation of Jaina art and iconography. It belongs to Gupta period circa 6th century A.D. and forms a welcome addition to our existing collection. Another remarkable acquisition consists of a railing pillar (Pl. II) belonging to Gandhara school, which depicts a Salabhanjika. It is said to have been found from an ancient site in Rawalpindi but was purchased at Mathura. A Vishnu image in viratarupa, which though fragmentary, proclaims a high standard of art of the Kushana period and is another noteworthy item of acquisition. Mention may also be made of an image of Buddha which evinces effective and superior workmanship characteristic of the Mathura artists.

About 80 terracottas of different schools and periods of Indian history emanating from the ancient sites of Rajghat, Mathura, Kosam, Bhita, Masaon, Kopia, Mati, Kudarkota, etc. were added to the collection. These offer extensive and interesting material for the study of various problems connected with the social, cultural and religious history of our country. The most important amongst these is a terracotta plaque depicting a lady holding a lotus flower in her right hand. The figure wears an elaborate head-gear embossed with jewels and lotus rosettes. It reminds us of the Yakshi figures portrayed on the railing of the Bharhut Stupa and is remarkable for its excellent workmanship combined with richness of expression. It hails from village Tarhi (Basti district) and comes as a present from Srimati Durgawati Tripathi of Basti. Another terracotta figure remarkable for its novel representation is the bust of a Mother Goddess found in the same district. It shows a seated female giving suck to a child (Plate III). Two more children are shown crawling on her arms and probably sucking her body. This representation of the Goddess as Universal Mother is very novel and hitherto unknown in plastic art. The object belongs to circa first century B.C. and is made of baked clay with red slip over it. It is said to have originated from Kopia and has been presented by Pt. Amaranath Shukla, B.A., LL.B.—an ardent archaeologist of Basti. Amongst other terracottas remarkable for their fine modelling and richness of expression, mention may be made of: a Shiva head from Rajghat, a mould depicting a lady in graceful pose from Bhita and a plaque showing a lady from Mathura.

But by far the most important archaeological discovery of the year was of the remains of an ancient glass factory at the ancient site of Kopia, 31 miles from Basti via Khalilabad. Here extensive ruins on the bank of an old bed of the river Ami (Anoma) are found. One of these mounds appears to have been the manufacturing centre of glass beads and glass bangles. This has yielded specimens of glass in various stages of manufacture, pieces of glass bangles, numerous specimens of beads and fragmentary crucibles etc. These relics were discovered by Sri M. M. Nagar, Curator, Provincial Museum, Lucknow, with the help of Sri Amarnath Shukla of Basti, and are at present under his close examination. When studied and assessed properly the material from the ancient site of Kopia is likely to throw flood of new and valuable light on the history and technique of glass-making in ancient India. In addition to these more than a thousand ancient beads made of glass, carnelion, agate, amethyst, sapphire and other semi-precious stones, discovered from various ancient sites were also added thus rendering the bead-collection of the Provincial Museum as one of the best and strongest in India now.

6. Numismatic.—The year was singularly fruitful in the acquisition of ancient coins and as many as 600 coins, consisting of 22 gold, 467 silver, 1 brass and 110 copper, were added to the Provincial Coin Cabinet. The most important acquisition of the year was a big hoard of 440 silver punch-marked coins which was obtained by purchase from Mathura. The coins are the standard Karshapana of 32 rattis weight and represent the earliest silver coinage of India being assignable to 5th—6th century B.C. They are a valuable addition to the already rich collection of punch-marked series of the Provincial Museum Coin Cabinet. Some Mitra coins of Panchala and Magha coins of Kaushambi were also obtained during the year. These throw valuable light on the early history of India and give us the names of some new kings so far unknown to history. Besides, a number of copper coins of the Kushana Emperors having figures of Sun, Moon, Fire, Siva, etc. were also added to. The most noteworthy of these is a coin of Emperor Huvishka showing on the obverse king seated on an elephant with bow and arrow in his hands—a device so far unknown in Kushana coinage. It was found in a Treasure Trove lot and has since been presented to Provincial Coin Cabinet by the U. P. Government.

In the Gupta series the most remarkable achievement was the acquisition of a very rare and unique gold coin of Emperor Kumaragupta I (Pl. IVa) of Asvamedha type. It shows on the obverse a horse standing before a sacrificial post and on the reverse his chief queen holding a pin, towel and water-pot. So far four specimens of this type of coin were known, which were all preserved in the British Museum. The Provincial Museum, Lucknow is now the first to acquire this singularly important coin in this country and put it on show for the general public. Another remarkable acquisition was a gold coin of horseman type of Chandragupta II Vikramaditya (Pl. IVb) showing on the reverse Goddess Lakshmi standing—a device absolutely new as yet. Other notable coins acquired in this series were: (a) a battle-axe type of Maharaja Samudragupta and (b) a lion-slayer type of Chandragupta II Vikramaditya (Pl. IVc) having on its reverse Goddess Durga seated on a lion walking to left—both showing peculiarities so far not met with on the existing coin types. Mention may also be made of a brass coin of archer type of Kumaragupta I which is the only specimen of a Gupta coin of this monarch so far known in this metal. In the mediaeval series three gold coins of the Kalachuri kings—Prithvideva and Varmmadeva were added to.

7. Report on the working of the Uttar Pradesh Coin Committee.—There was no change in the personnel of the Coin Committee during the year. It consisted of (1) Dr. Panna Lall, M.A., D.LITT., (2) Dr. A. S. Altekar, M.A., LL.B., D.LITT., (3) Rai

Bahadur Sri Prapag Dayal, (Retd. Curator) and (4) Sri M. M. Nagar, M.A., U.P.E.S., Secretary.

The following five hoards of treasure trove coins found in the State, were disposed of during the year:—

Report No.	District	Class of coins	Metal	No. of coins
1. Kanpur		Mughal Emperors	Silver	80
2. Basti		Pathan Kings	Silver	100
3. Jhansi		Mughal Emperors	Silver	182
4. Naini Tal		Mughal and Durrani kings	Silver	291
5. Faizabad		Kalachuri dynasty	Gold	1
			Total	654

These hoards consisted of 1 gold and 653 silver coins and included issues of the Kalachuri, the Pathan, the Mughal and the Durrani kings. All these coins were identified and recommended for acquisition and distribution according to Treasure Trove Rules amongst various institutions mentioned in Appendix B. 51 coins were acquired for the Coin Cabinet of the Provincial Museum, Lucknow. 395 were recommended for distribution to other institutions and 208 were taken for sale at the Provincial Museum, Lucknow.

One gold coin of Virasinghadeva, a scion of Kalachuri dynasty, who ruled over Aryavartta during the 11th century A.D., which emanated from village Sotahni, Police Station Ayodhya, district Faizabad, being unrepresented, has been acquired for the Coin Cabinet of the Provincial Museum, Lucknow.

Amongst the silver issues one coin (no. 56) of Mughal Emperor Jehangir, bearing the mint Islamabad and date 1022-Aban, found in the hoard of 80 silver coins from Kanpur district, is unique and has been acquired for the Provincial Coin Cabinet. A coin (no. 114) of Shah Alam II found in the hoard of 182 silver coins from Jhansi district, is remarkable on account of its date 1188 written as VV. This coin along with three others (nos. 13, 14 and 19) which go to fill up gaps in our collection, have been acquired for the Provincial Museum. Forty-five more coins from the hoard of 291 silver coins from Naini Tal district, bearing such dates and mint names as were wanting in the Provincial Coin Cabinet, have further been acquired.

During the year 41 coins were received from Government for sale thus making the total of coins in hand in the year 610. 281 were sold to the public for Rs.198.

8. Natural History.—One specimen of a panther was received from the Prince of Wales Zoological Gardens, Lucknow. Its head was mounted locally and put on show.

9. Ethnography.—57 objects detailed in Appendix A were added to this section. Most important of these is a beautiful brass Lamp Stand or Dipastambha (50.26) representing a fine example of Nepalese art of circa 18th century A.D. It is surmounted by an image of the Buddhist God Vighnantaka standing on Ganesha. The deity has four hands in which he holds clockwise: a sheath, a bowl, a purse and a sword. Ganesha has also four hands in which he is holding clockwise: Parasu, Modaka, flower and rosary. Another remarkable object is a brass image of goddess Ambika (49.227) seated in lalitasana. She holds in her right hand a bunch of flowers. The left leg of the goddess rests on her vehicle-lion. The image has an ornamental aureol the back of which bears an inscription of V.S.1472-1415 A.D. In the armoury section one Bhujali and some old flints, lock guns and pistols which were received as present from the District Magistrate, Lucknow, form valuable acquisitions. A few old swords which came as a present from the Principal, Lal Bagh Girls School, Lucknow, also deserve mention. Towards the close of the year a representative set of 23 objects (listed under no. 50.29[1-23] consisting of images, terracottas, herbs, religious symbols and utensils, etc. collected from the mountaneous region of Tibet, was purchased for the Museum. This goes a long way to supplement the rich collection of Tibetan antiquities purchased last year.

10. Picture Gallery.—Nine Tibetan banner-paintings (Thanakas) were purchased for this section. Of these a panel (49.259) representing Goddess Kali dancing on a demon and a banner (49.257) depicting Padmapani Bodhisattva seated on a cushion decorated with full-blown lotus, deserve special mention. Both these paintings are nearly 300 years old and vividly show the influence of Indian Art or the art of Tibet during the mediaeval period. Two banner paintings (49.262-63) showing Buddha in earth-touching attitude bhumisparshamudra and surrounded by 108 miniature Buddhas in various poses also call for attention on account of their simple delineation combined with richness of expression.

11. Library.—In addition to the subscribed periodicals and journals many new books were added to the Reference Library. Of these the most important are:

Shri Aurobindo.—The Significance of Indian Art.

Coomaraswamy, A. K. and Horner, I. B.—The Living Thoughts of Gautama Buddha.

12. Interpretation and Research Work.—The Curator, Sri Nagar, was mostly occupied in studying and interpreting the antiquities acquired during the year. He also devoted himself to the classification and scientific study of the rich collection of tribal coins housed in the Museum and assessing their historical importance. Detailed articles embodying the researches made thereon were prepared by him and contributed to the Journal of the Numismatic Society of India under the caption "Some New and Rare Coins from Kaushambi."

Sri Nagar also studied and systematized the rich archaeological material acquired by him from Kopia and published the results of his studies in various research journals. These together with small notes contributed to the columns of the leading dailies as well as popular Hindi Magazines of the Province aroused considerable interest amongst the scholars and the general public and led a large number of them to visit the museum and obtain first hand information about these rare and valuable objects. He sent a portion of the Kopia glass beads to the Director, Central Glass Institute, Calcutta, for analysing their composition and colour. The result of latter's scientific investigation is eagerly awaited as it is likely to throw valuable light on the technique of making and colouring glass in ancient India.

To reveal the ancient glories of our motherland as evinced by the art treasures in the State Museum, the Curator delivered four broad-cast talks during the year at the invitation of the Station Director, All-India Radio, Lucknow Station. These talks were on various interesting and popular topics such as "History through coins—Gupta period", "Archaeological Discovery in Kopia", "Indian Mural Paintings" and "Indian Architecture". Amplified versions of these talks were also contributed to various Hindi magazines in order to educate a wider circle of the public.

13. Visitors—The number of visitors during the year was 2,94,273 as against 2,93,165 of the past year, the daily average being 806. The highest number being on Ganga Ashnan Day was 18,697. Visitors to the Archaeological Section numbered 36,192. During the year under review His Excellency Sri Bidhu Shekhar Malik, Governor of United Provinces, was gracious enough to pay a visit to the Provincial Museum, Lucknow, and was taken round by the Curator. His Excellency was very much impressed with the rich collection and was pleased to record the following remarks in the Visitors' Book:

"The Provincial Museum has a very valuable collection of old coins, paintings, pottery and other things. I was very interested in all that I saw. The Curator, Mr. M. M. Nagar, seems to have real enthusiasm for his work".

His visits to Banaras, Azamgarh, Basti and Mathura districts were very fruitful in the acquisition of a number of coins, sculptures terracottas, seals and other archaeological material mentioned in the report. He accompanied Dr. Atma Ram, Director, Central Glass Research Institute, Jadavpur, Calcutta, to Kopia—the site of the ancient glass factory—and discussed with him various problems connected with the technique of glass making in ancient India. He attended the session of Indian History Congress as also the meetings of the Numismatic Society and Museum Association of India at Cuttack.

Sri Nagar has been appointed Secretary of the Uttar Pradesh Museums Advisory Board and has taken charge of his new office amidst his heavy pre-occupations. Sri Nagar has as usual shown great enthusiasm for his work and I cannot do better than close this report by repeating my deep appreciation of his hard work which has resulted in the development of the Provincial Museum of which he is the very life and soul.
